- 1 The opted-out state of this screen Shown when `profile.opted_out_at` is set (ALGORITHMS §28). The enrollee keeps their account and can still sign in — locking them out would strand their finished work and leave them no way to change their mind. Studies they completed stay readable; nothing new is offered, because cohort resolution skips them. Rejoining clears the column and makes them eligible for studies that start afterward, not for the runs their opt-out ended. This block and the “Rejoin” action replace the study list; the cards below show the normal state. What this screen looks like after you have left the study pool.
- 2 Rejoin the study pool. You will be eligible for studies that start after this.
- 3 Enter the study session.
- 4 Continue to the study session.
