- 1 Enrollee-side: text into a message This is the ENROLLEE's text-attach affordance in the chat — a small plain-text file whose contents are dropped into the message box. It is NOT the Documents library (that's an experimenter screen for pdf/docx/xlsx with extraction + RAG). It follows `experiment.blinded` rather than a switch of its own: a blinded study disables upload and download together, so nothing about the condition can enter or leave the session.
- 2 Discard changes and close.
- 3 What Insert does The file's text is inserted into your message box — you can edit it before sending. Nothing is stored as a document or shared with other participants; it's just text in your next message. The file's words drop into your message box so you can edit them before sending — nothing is saved as a document or shared with others.
